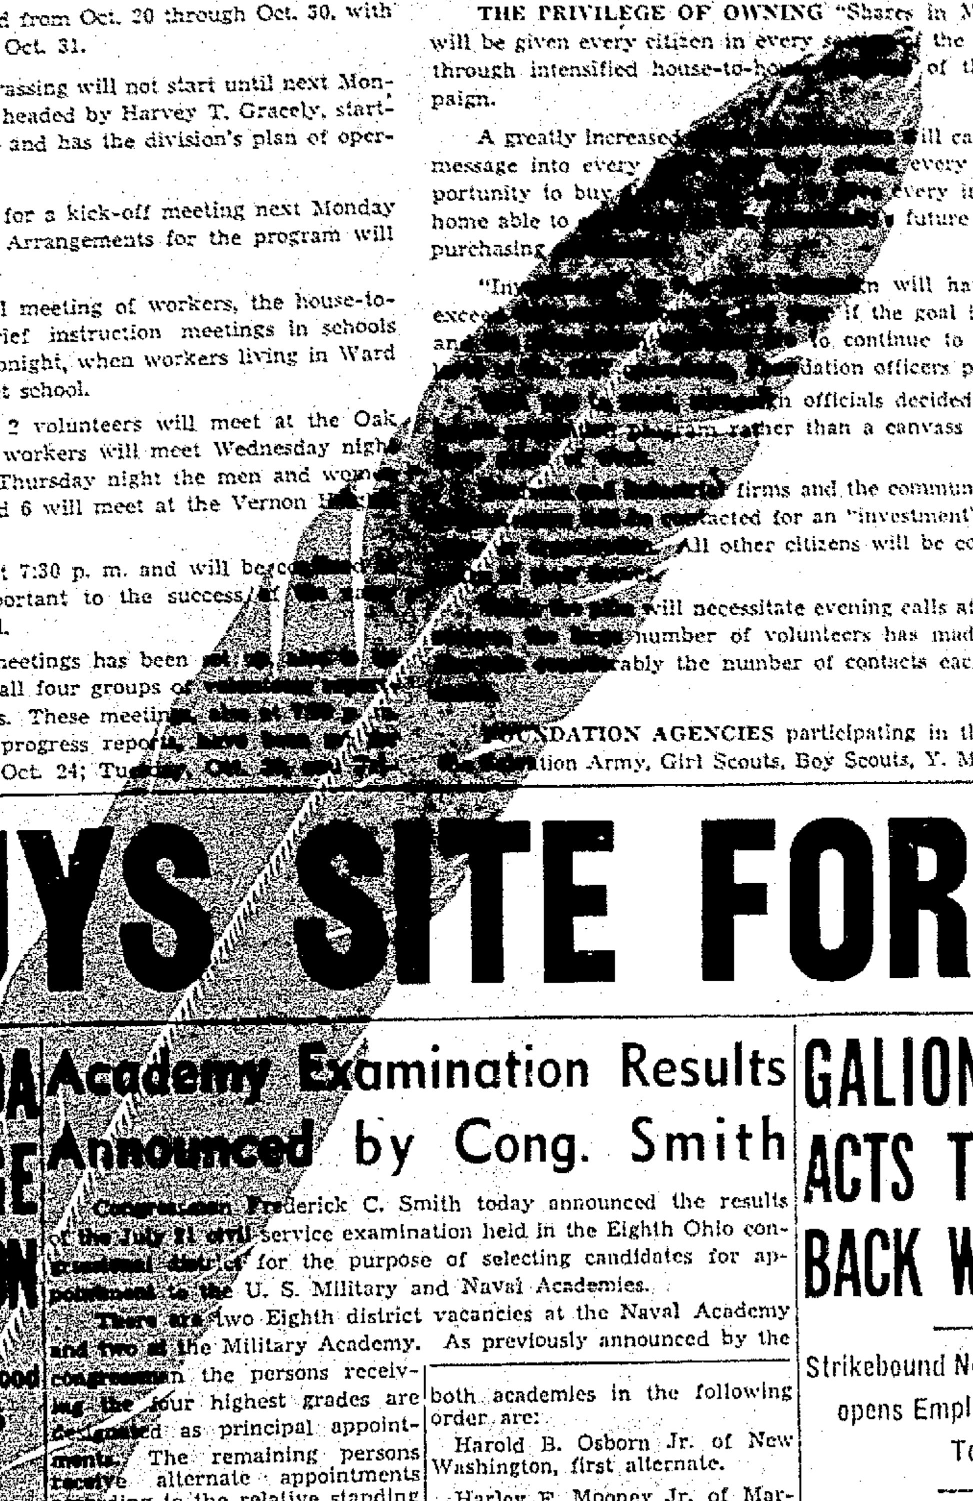
Community Fund Drive Set — "Share in Marion's Future"



MARION COUNTY'S Community Fund drive to create an operating treasury of $60,043 for the Marion Community Foundation activities in 1948 will get under way a week from today.

This year's campaign to a large extent will emphasize two symbols, the bright red feather which is the Community Fund mark of distinction from coast to coast, and "certificates of investment" showing that purchasers have responded to the campaign appeal, "Buy Shares in Marion's Future."

The 1948 campaign also will be conducted on a more intensive house-to-house basis than in former years, to give every citizen of Marion city and county the opportunity to make an "investment" in the character-building and welfare agencies of the Foundation.

The selling of certificates at $5 a share, a new way of presenting the campaign, was decided on to impress on everyone that the guaranteed success of the 1948 drive is more vital to Marion's future than perhaps any similar campaign in the past.

"MORE THAN EVER BEFORE we feel that people must be impressed with the fact that in financing the Marion Community Foundation they are not making a gesture of charity but are making an investment in activities that will pay generous dividends in terms of community development and enterprise," Ralph E. Carhart, campaign chairman, said today.

While the Marion county campaign will be conducted at a time when Community Fund organizations throughout the country will be staging or preparing for similar drives, those in charge stressed that all money raised in Marion city and county will remain with the Marion Community Foundation. None of the "investment" funds will be shared with state or national organizations.

The local drive will extend from Oct. 20 through Oct. 30, with final reports on Friday night, Oct. 31.

While the countywide canvassing will not start until next Monday, the special gifts division, headed by Harvey T. Gracely, started its work last Monday night and has the division's plan of operations well under way.

PRESENT PLANS CALL for a kick-off meeting next Monday night to open the campaign. Arrangements for the program will be announced later.

In addition to the general meeting of workers, the house-to-house corps will meet in brief instruction meetings in schools throughout the city, starting tonight, when workers living in Ward 1 will meet at the Mark Street school.

Tuesday night the Ward 2 volunteers will meet at the Oak Street school. Wards 3 and 4 workers will meet Wednesday night at the Glenwood school, and Thursday night the men and women who will canvass Wards 5 and 6 will meet at the Vernon [illegible] Junior High school.

The meetings will start at 7:30 p. m. and will be [illegible] instructional information important to the success [illegible] paign, Mr. Carhart announced.

[illegible]UNDATION AGENCIES participating in the campaign are [illegible]tion Army, Girl Scouts, Boy Scouts, Y. M. C. A., Y-Teens (formerly the Girl Reserves.) and the Emergency Hospital Relief Service.

Foundation officials estimate that the agencies make their services available to 80 per cent of the children in Marion city and county.

Before setting up the campaign goal, each agency was required to submit an itemized budget of the least amount each could continue to operate on efficiently. The budgets were analyzed, item by item, by a committee of civic leaders who studied carefully the needs of each agency.

"MARION HAS had a new awakening," E. L. Cleveland, president of the Foundation, said in enlarging on a campaign statement that "everybody gains" from the Community Fund. "We have discovered that these agencies are vital to ourselves, our children, and our nation. These Community Fund agencies are a great bulwark for good when one is so sorely needed. Even though our costs of living have jumped by leaps and bounds, the sacrifice of a few luxuries during the year will be more than enough to give our young people the security they deserve.

"Everyone of us benefits when we live in a community where loyalty and conscience protect and keep the young people, strengthen family life, provide health and medical services, and care for the helpless and aged."

M. Paul Hunt is serving as vice chairman of the campaign and Charlton Myers is head of the speakers' bureau.

AFL Raises Union Dues By One Cent a Member

By The Associated Press

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 13—The AFL leadership got behind a proposal today to collect a million dollars more annually from member unions to finance a far-flung "educational and public relations program."

An increase in the per capita tax on the AFL's 7,600,000 members to three cents apiece was recommended by the 15-man executive council and will be acted on by the convention before it adjourns Thursday night. The tax now is two cents a member for the first 200,000 members in a union, and one and one-half cents per member in excess of that number in the bigger unions.

The funds thus raised would supplement special contributions and expenditures in next year's presidential election campaign. That will be different, the AFL's official spokesman said.

UN ARAB BLOC MAPS FIGHT ON PALESTINE

By The Associated Press

LAKE SUCCESS, Oct. 13—The six-nation Arab bloc in the United Nations, solidly unified in opposition to any scheme for partitioning Palestine, made final plans today for unleashing a series of speeches attacking the position taken by the United States in the controversial Holy Land question.

With every Arab delegation planning to take the floor again before the general assembly's special 57-nation Palestine committee, Arab spokesmen made it plain that anti-American feelings of most Middle East statesmen were at fever pitch.

The U. S., through its delegate, Helschel V. Johnson, announced on Saturday its support in principle of the plan for dividing Palestine into two countries, one Jewish and one Arab. When the committee reconvenes at 3 p. m. today, Russia was expected to announce its long-awaited position in the hotly-debated case. France, last of the Big Five to be heard from on this issue, was expected to support, at least in principle, the partition plan.

SAFE CRACKED AT RICHWOOD

Burglars Break Open School Strongbox and Escape with $700.

Special to The Star

RICHWOOD, Oct. 13—Burglars cracked the safe in the Richwood High school office Friday night and escaped with $700 in cash.

Union County Sheriff H. S. Roosa and Richwood Marshal Charles Davis investigating the burglary are without clues as no fingerprints were left behind and the burglary went unnoticed until Saturday morning.

The burglary was discovered by school custodian Dewey Jordan. Time of the break in was placed between 11 p. m. Friday night and 8 a. m. Saturday when Jordan opened up the school building. Jordan said the building was locked for the night following the Richwood-Mt. Gilead football game, played at the Richwood High school field adjoining the school.

Jordan discovered a side door unlocked and officials theorize the burglars hid in the school building after the game and allowed themselves to be locked in the school, leaving by the side door after looting the safe.

Entry to the office on the first floor was made by picking the lock on the door, officials discovered. Dusty footprints on the floor in the office indicated that there was at least two in the burglary.

The combination of the safe had been battered off. Contents taken were football game receipts, lunch counter money and other cash, all in change and bills of small denomination, according to principal H. R. Fisher.

Check on other rooms and storerooms at the high school indicated that the school office was the only room entered by the burglars. Sheriff's department men arriving at the school to take fingerprints were thwarted as the safe, doors and handles were wiped clean. Officials think the burglars were gloved.

SOUTH FLORIDA SETS DAMAGE AT 20 MILLION

Freak Hurricane Leaves Flood Called Greatest in 25 Years.

By The Associated Press

MIAMI, Fla., Oct. 13—Southeast Florida, inundated in sections by the highest flood waters in more than a quarter of a century, placed its crop damage at between $15,000,000 and $20,000,000 in the wake of a freakish hurricane that whirled northeastward into the Atlantic.

With winds up to 60 miles an hour, the storm lashed across southern Florida Saturday and Sunday and then moved toward the northeast, accompanied by heavy squalls.

Commissioner of Agriculture Nathan Mayo called the hurricane the greatest farm disaster in more than a generation. Tons of water poured down upon the Everglades, where many fields and grazing lands already were covered.

Thousands of residents sought refuge in schools and other public buildings as hundreds of homes were flooded and mass evacuations were carried out. Highways were under water and transportation facilities were crippled.

1,800 Victims Reported

At Fort Lauderdale the Red Cross added 1,800 flood victims to its list, and about 1,000 persons were moved to the Pompano state farmers market from the Pompano beach migratory workers' camp and nearby Hammondville.

Torrential rains turned thousands of lowland acres, already sodden by two previous storms and almost daily rains for nearly a month, into virtual lakes.

Three planes of the Army Air Forces were ready to experiment in spraying dry ice on the storms clouds as they rolled over the Atlantic. With 31 men aboard, the planes planned to fly into the storm area at about 30,000 feet while scientists studied the effect of dropping 1,000 pounds of the arid ice into center. The planes were to return to MacDill field at Tampa late today.

At Hamilton, Bermuda, two members of the U. S. Army Air Forces piloted a B-17 to the "eye" of the hurricane as it roared off the Florida coast yesterday.

The pilots—1st Lt. George Kougias of Stephenville, Tex., and 1st Lt. Charles B. Jones of New Bedford, Mass.—carried out the hazardous mission for the 53rd Weather Reconnaissance squadron.

The storm center passed just north of Miami, weather bureau observers said. This city had 5.01 inches of rain, 1.34 inches in 10 minutes for the heaviest fall ever recorded here in such a short time.

Two Marine Corps veterans who had volunteered as American Red Cross ambulance men were killed when the vehicle in which they were riding to evacuate flood victims rammed a utility pole.

The men, here to attend a convention were identified as Thomas Fedele, 18, of Chicago, and James Warnock, 23, of Troy, N. Y.

REPORT ON EUROPE GIVEN TO TRUMAN

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Oct. 13—President Truman called top government officials to the White House today to hear first hand reports on the European situation from his ambassadors to Britain and Russia and from the American military governor of Germany.

While this discussion of Europe's food and political crisis was going on, representatives of distillers assembled for a 2:30 p. m. meeting with Chairman Charles Luckman of the Citizens' Food committee. The purpose of the latter meeting was to set a date for the start of a 60-day shutdown on whisky-making to conserve grain.

Only five distillers were expected at the Luckman conference. The rest, requested to wire and telephone their replies to the shutdown proposal, have bombarded the committee with messages.

A committee spokesman said a clear majority gave assent to the closing, but that the messages had not been sorted through to discover if the acquiescence was 100 per cent. Some distillers and their employers have protested in public statements against closing.

Presidential Secretary Charles G. Ross told reporters that the noon meeting of top-level diplomats and officials in the White

Only One American Can Tell It

The inside story of the fateful big-power conferences which largely shaped this restless postwar era might remain unknown for years—but for one man. He is former Secretary of State James F. Byrnes. Now in private life, Mr. Byrnes has resolved, as a vital public service, to lead Americans behind the closed doors of Yalta and Potsdam. In a remarkable series of articles, he quotes verbatim crucial words spoken by Stalin, Roosevelt, Molotov and Churchill—able to do so because he kept copious notes in the shorthand he learned as a boy. What he reveals is exciting reading, living history—a series no American can afford to miss.

GALION PLANT ACTS TO CALL BACK WORKERS

Strikebound North Electric Reopens Employment Office Today.

Special to The Star

GALION, Oct. 13—The strikebound North Electric Co. opened its employment office this morning to accept registration of employes wishing to go back to their jobs.

Company Vice President R. K. McBerty said workers will be called back to their departments as soon as the plant is ready to operate, with those who have signed petitions to go back to work slated to be the first to be summoned.

Maintenance workers and repairmen entered the plant at 6 a. m. to start replacing the more than 400 windows broken several days ago in a flurry of violence following a company led "back-to-work" movement. Mr. McBerty indicated that several days would elapse before the plant would be ready to operate.

Union Enjoined

The UAW-CIO, enjoined from mass picketing and interfering with company officials and employes or anyone entering or leaving the plants by a court order issued in common pleas court at Bucyrus Friday, observed the provisions of the order today.

Under the eyes of the police, six pickets patrolled before each of the three gates of the plant. Pickets carried placards proclaiming all who go back to work are "scabs". Five patrolmen were on duty at 6 a. m. when maintenance trucks entered company gates. One officer was detailed to stand by later in the morning.

The UAW, seeking recognition by the company as bargaining agent for North company employes, voted at a mass meeting Sunday to continue the strike until the company not only signed a contract but included the Mt. Gilead and Kenton plants under UAW representation.

Edward Duck, UAW international representative claimed at noon today that "only a handful" of employes had appeared at the company personnel office to register at the request of the company. Duck claimed not more than nine or ten have registered to go back so far. He added that "if the company should hire new employes or bring in strikebreakers, the union will not be responsible for the consequences."

A report from the company, however, indicated a much higher number of workers reporting to register for work. Personnel Manager Alan Ryon said that by 10 a. m. nearly 100 persons had been in to register and that the company expected more throughout the day.

Fair Weather Enjoyed By All of United States

By The Associated Press

Fair weather with mild autumn temperatures mostly above the October average was in prospect for the nation from coast to coast today.

The Chicago weather bureau said the rains along the south Atlantic coast appeared to have moved out to sea along with the freakish hurricane which lashed southern Florida over the weekend.

Temperatures throughout the nation were well above frost lines last night, the bureau said.

HARDING TOMB SERVICES HELD

More Than 1,500 Boy and Girl Scouts Join In 16th Annual Pilgrimage.

More than 1,500 Boy and Girl Scouts participated in the 16th annual pilgrimage to the tomb of the late President Harding yesterday.

Scouts and their leaders from the Marion, Morrow, Wyandot and Crawford counties, which are included in the Harding Area, took part in the parade and wreath ceremonies at the memorial.

Marionites lined the streets along the line of march from Central Junior High school to the memorial grounds.

Wreath Placed on Tomb

Col. John E. McMahon Jr. of Columbus, executive officer of the Ohio Military district, presidential representative, placed the large green cemetery wreath on the tomb in behalf of President Truman. The wreath bore the presidential seal and a red white and blue streamer.

Immediately following, Girl Scout representatives paid tribute to Mrs. Harding and then a group of Boy Scouts placed a purple wreath on the tomb.

Rev. R. W. Faulkner, pastor of Calvary Evangelical United Brethren church, spoke the invocation and benediction. A brief speech by Dr. Robert Gray of Prospect, president of the Harding council, explained the services held each year in homage to the late president.

School Band in Program

Ceremonies at the memorial included a musical fanfare by the Harding High school band, assembly of scouts to a call by the Harding trumpeters, the massing of scout colors followed by the band playing "The Star Spangled

2 PROPERTIES ON CHURCH AND HIGH STREETS

Start of Building Program To Await More Suitable Conditions.

A site on East Church and South High streets as the location for a new Marion Y. M. C. A. building was purchased Saturday by the Y at an administrator's sale of property in the estate of the late Mrs. Jessie Norris.

Divided into two tracts, the Church street plot has a frontage of 171 feet and is 132 feet in depth. The High street property has a frontage of 60 feet and a depth of 159½ feet.

Mrs. Norris, who died several months ago, was the widow of the late Judge Caleb H. Norris, for many years a Marion county jurist.

The Church street plot includes the Norris home, a brick structure immediately east of the postoffice, and a frame residence. The Norris home at 101 East Church street was occupied by Mrs. Norris until her death. The other property, at 201 East Church street, now is occupied by the L. D. Ketner family.

Separated by Alley

The Church and High street properties are separated at the rear by an east-west alley connecting High and State streets. A frame house, street number 197, stands on the High street property. It now is vacant.

Purchase price of the properties was $25,500 for the Church street plot and $7,500 for the High street tract for a total of $33,000. This was only a few hundred dollars above the appraised price.

Y. M. C. A. officials said today the purchase was made from funds pledged some time ago for the purpose of providing a site for a new building to replace the more than 50-year-old structure on South State street which now houses the Y.

Purchase of the Norris properties ends a year's work on the part of the Y location committee in seeking a building site. The committee included Carl Schell, chairman, A. W. Kette, Carl E. Danner, Henry A. True, Robert E. White, Edgar W. Barnhart and Harold J. Grigsby.

No Building Plans Drawn

Y. M. C. A. officials said today no plans had been drafted for the proposed new building. This step was held up since the type of building would necessarily depend on the nature of the site obtained. They expressed satisfaction today over the site purchased.

The Y Building committee includes A. W. Kette, chairman, and all other members of the location committee with the exception of Mr. Schell.

Mr. Kette said today there were no plans for the immediate start of a building program. This will have to wait until building conditions are more settled, he said.

It is considered probable, however, that any building erected will face on Church street with the High street property used as a parking lot and for outdoor recreational and athletic activities.

Other Norris Properties

Other of the 12 Norris tracts sold at auction Saturday include the following properties:

The decision was announced Saturday in a disbarment proceeding brought by the Clark County Bar association, charging Nevius with "misconduct, moral turpitude and unprofessional conduction in office."

MASS SLAYING TRIAL BEGINS SECOND TIME

LA GRANGE, Tex., Oct. 13—The task of selecting a jury to hear the case of Dr. Lloyd I. Ross began for a second time today.

The 42-year-old San Antonio surgeon is held in the May 25 mass slaying of four people on a lonely road in Comal county.

Sheriff T. J. Flournoy, Fayette county, said yesterday he did not believe that there would be any trouble in obtaining a jury.

The case was transferred here Sept. 12 from New Braunfels, county seat of Comal county, after only 10 jurors were obtained from three special panels.

Judge J. R. Fuchs, who ruled at New Braunfels that he did not think a fair and impartial trial could be obtained there, will hear the case.

Dr. Ross is charged with the murder of Willard H. York, 39, a close friend; York's wife, Gertrude, 43; their son, John, nine and York's mother, Mrs. Mary York, 67, all of San Antonio.

Ross is a native of Dell Roy, Ohio.

TRUMAN'S FOOD PLAN SHOWS DIM RESULTS

By The United Press

President Truman's food conservation program was one week old today but even its most enthusiastic supporters conceded its success has been only mediocre.

Although too early to predict the final outcome, the double barrelled program to lower prices at home and provide food for European relief had made little progress in either direction during its first seven days.

In a speech to the nation last week, Mr. Truman laid particular stress on market speculation in grain futures, which he termed "just plain gambling." He suggested that the boards of trade increase their margin requirements in an effort to curb the speculation.

The leading boards of trade "reluctantly" agreed to increase the margin requirements to 33 1-3 per cent, but the prices of wheat, oats and corn for December delivery still showed gains up to 12¾ cents a bushel over the previous Saturday. Oats were up as much as eight cents and corn gained 5½ cents a bushel in December contracts.

Three-dollar-a-bushel wheat returned to the nation's grain markets for the first time in 27 years Saturday and market analysis said one of the chief reasons was the fact that the government was buying such large quantities for export.

Red Feather—Symbol of Honor

The gay red feather, symbol of the Marion Community Foundation's financial campaign and chest drives throughout the country, is the familiar tag which tells the public that "here is a member in good standing of the great family of community services supported by contributions to a great cause."

Easy to see, easy to recognize and easy to remember, it is a heart-warming and hopeful symbol. It proclaims the service for which it speaks as a partner in the modern democratic method of federated fund raising and community planning, which most students of the social-economic scene agree is more and more inevitably the pattern for voluntary health and welfare agencies.

The history of the red feather dates back to its ancient use by the Chinese in robes of state for honored public servants, and to its use by medieval knights and American Indians as an award for gallantry and heroism.

"EXPERIENCE IS THE BEST TEACHER!
... in bowling and in choosing a cigarette,"
says
Ned Day
5-TIME NATIONAL BOWLING CHAMPION
I KNOW FROM EXPERIENCE THERE'S NO OTHER CIGARETTE LIKE A CAMEL

MORE PEOPLE ARE SMOKING CAMELS THAN EVER BEFORE!

"GREATEST Match Game Bowler of All Time" is the title that bowling authorities have given Ned Day. He's had years of experience as a bowler. His most enlightening experience as a smoker dates back to the wartime cigarette shortage.

"Those were the days," says Ned, "when I smoked whatever brand I could get. Naturally, I compared the different brands I smoked. I found by experience that no other cigarette suits my 'T-Zone' like a Camel!"

Many thousands had that same experience. With smoker after smoker who tried and compared, Camels are the "choice of experience."

Try Camels. Let your own experience ... your "T-Zone"... tell you why more people are smoking Camels than ever before!

According to a Nationwide survey:
MORE DOCTORS SMOKE CAMELS
THAN ANY OTHER CIGARETTE
When 113,597 doctors from coast to coast were asked by three leading independent research organizations to name the cigarette they smoked, more doctors named Camel than any other brand!

CIO Convention Opens but Will Act Largely as Rubber Stamp

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press Writer

BOSTON, Oct. 13 — The CIO convention opened here today and will continue all week. But don't expect sensations.

The problems which might have caused a bad rumpus already have pretty much been settled among themselves beforehand by CIO's top officiels.

This may make it seem that the convention itself will be pretty much of a rubber stamp to approve what the top officials have already agreed upon. That's about right.

James Marlow

There'll be some speeches, and maybe arguments, and the delegates from the CIO's 41 unions seem pretty sure to do some things like these:

Vote a blister-criticism of the new Taft-Hartley law and of high prices and perhaps vote in favor of this country's foreign policy.

That doesn't mean nothing will be done at the convention.

Here the CIO may start the wheels rolling to get out a big CIO vote in 1948 to defeat the congressmen who voted for the Taft-Hartley act.

And the convention delegates may vote in favor of bringing back price controls. (That doesn't mean congress will do it just because CIO might want it done.)

Why So Quiet

But why this expected quiet at the convention? The following explanation of how the CIO and a CIO convention operate may explain why.

There are more than 6,000,000 members in the 41 unions which make up the CIO. Each of those unions—called national unions—is made up of a swarm of local unions.

The 41 have banded themselves together in the CIO—congress of industrial organizations — for the strength that comes from sticking together.

The CIO itself has 11 officers: Philip Murray, president; James Carey, secretary-treasurer; and nine vice presidents.

(Murray is also-president of the Steelworkers' union and the nine CIO vice presidents are, in their own right, officers of unions within the CIO.)

Those 11 men are the top CIO officers but within the CIO is a very powerful board, called the CIO executive board.

It is made up of Murray, Carey, the nine vice presidents, and representatives from CIO's 41 unions. (These 41 union represetatives on the board are officers in their own unions.)

Meets To Smooth Way

This board met last week to tackle CIO's sorest problems and try to settle them quietly instead of letting them pop wide open, publicly, on the convention floor.

(The executive board meets every year before the convention opens to try to smooth the convention's way.)

For example:

Last week the board settled a bitter fight between two CIO unions and thus avoided the bitterness and maybe damage to the CIO which might have come if the delegates to the convention took up the fight on the floor this week.

This isn't all the executive board does. It sets up committees to whip into shape the problems the board members think the CIO convention delegates should vote on.

It isn't hard to understand how this is done:

Since the board is made up of officers from CIO's 41 unions, those officers are in a pretty good spot to get the delegates from their own unions to go along with them when it comes time to vote on the floor for something the board has agreed upon.

President Murray is a guiding force in this keeping peace and quiet within the CIO by arranging things before convention time so there will be peace.

FIERY OBJECT PUZZLES WEST

Flaming "Something" Soars Over Texas-Mexico Border; Army Denies Knowledge.

By The Associated Press

EL PASO, Tex., Oct. 13 — A flaming object which soared over the Texas-Mexico border and crashed near the Zamalayuca mountains of Mexico with a loud explosion and billowing smoke remained a mystery today.

The point of impact was said to be less than 10 miles from where an off-track V-2 rocket crashed south of Juarez May 29.

Public relations officers at the White Sands, N. M., proving grounds said no V-2 rockets have been fired since Oct. 9.

Military officials at air fields and other installations in the southwest said that no guided missiles had been fired yesterday and that no rocket planes were missing from fields in the area.

2 See Object

Two persons claimed to have seen the fiery object and others in the Fabens, Tex., area, 28 miles away, heard the explosion.

The explosion occurred at approximately 9.30 a. m. Mexican time (10:30 MST) yesterday.

Billows of unaccounted for smoke were reported seen by two persons on the El Paso-Gabens highway about the time the explosion was heard.

Sabas Aranda, a reserve captain in the Mexican army, reported the incident first. He said he saw the object traveling from east to west, which would indicate that it came from the direction of the United States.

Attracted by Light

"Attracted by a brilliant light," Aranda said, "I looked up and saw an object trailing blue flame traveling at great speed east to west. It made no noise while traveling but two blasts were heard shortly after it disappeared over the sandhills near Colonia Reforma" Colonia Reforma is a small town near the border.

Several persons in Colonia Reforma claimed to have heard the explosion.

Jim Halloran, city editor of the El Paso Times quoted local meteorologists as saying that had the object been a meteor, it would have been accompanied by a trail of smoke and a rumbling noise

LOVE'S PERILOUS PATH

By ADELE GARRISON

KATHARINE'S clairvoyance was not wholly correct. Dicky's sister, Harriet Braithwaite, was on the long distance telephone, as she had predicted, but her message was not the one my kinswoman had voiced.

"Madge?" she queried when the connection had been established. "How is Mary?"

"In wonderful shape," I told her. "All her emotional problems have been solved and her memory is coming back swiftly, but she seems to get fatigued easily. Katharine is arranging to have her rest as much as possible."

"I am so glad," Mary's aunt said with relief in her voice, then put a hesitant question.

"Will she be terribly disappointed, do you think, if I cannot come immediately to see her, as I planned?"

I was careful to conceal the relief in my own voice as I answered her, but I waved a jubilant hand over my head at Dicky and Katharine.

"She will be disappointed, of course," I said, "for she had counted on seeing you. But she is so absorbed in studying her lines, and in her reunion wth her husband, that I am sure a short delay in your schedule will not upset her. You will be able to come on later, won't you?"

"Oh, yes, of course," she said, her relief stressed in her accents now. "Edwin is down with one of his troublesome colds, and I don't want to leave him until he is himself again. Besides, he wishes to come with me."

"That will be wonderful," I said. "We shall be so glad to see him. And your decision fits in with Mrs. Bickett's wish to keep Mary as quiet as possible for the next few days."

"But what about Mother?" she asked hastily, and I wondered if there were left in Harriet Braithwaite's heart any vestige of that old jealousy which had caused her to ignore my reference to Katharine.

"Happily, Mother does not know anything about your decision to make your visit to her so soon," I said. "You know how excitable she is. We, of course, have minimized Mary's condition to her, and we thought it best to say nothing of your coming until you actually had started your journey."

"I am so glad," she said. "When I see how things are going with Edwin, I will write her and tell her I hope to visit her within the next month. If I can make it sooner, I'll let you know, so you can guard against any exciting surprise."

"Thank you," I said. "That will be very wise. But then I always expect wise decisions from you."

"Thank you," she echoed, stressing the pronoun. "Please give my best love to Mary and Richard and—no, not to Mother. She'd better not know that I telephoned. Goodbye now."

"Good-bye," I said, and hanging up the receiver, turned to Katharine and Dicky and filled in the gaps of the one-sided conversation they had heard.

Well, that's one worry off our minds," Dicky said. "Not that I'm wanting to dodge my only sister," he added hastily, patently conscious that he had sounded a bit unmindful. "But I can see where trying to fit her in with the present set-up would be a pain in the neck for both you and Katrina."

He cocked a wicked eye at me. "If only I had that sort of spouse!" he mourned. "Mother always used to say that if Edwin had a gouty twinge in his big toe, you'd think a major operation was scheduled. Not that Harriet ever let Edwin know the fuss she was making. She was too sapient—a two dollar word, my loves—for that, but everybody else in the household was fully aware that a serious emergency was at hand. But do I get any coddling like that? The question hangs in the air—unanswered."

"If Madge ever tried a stunt like that, you'd get the first plane to Reno," Katharine said. "But am I relieved at Mrs. Braithwaite's decision! That means Mary will have no distractions for awhile, except—I do think that for both Mother Graham's sake and hers, she ought to go down to see her grandmother at the hospital as soon as possible."

"Right you are!" Dicky agreed. "We'll take Faith along. That will be insurance against any teary emotion."

"You have something there," Katharine said.

"And I have something else here," Dicky said determinedly. "I want your professional opinion, Katharine."

"You have a twinge in your big toe?" Katharine asked saucily, emphasizing the possessive pronoun.

"Not just at this moment," Dicky said airily. "I'll let you know if it begins, so you can bring on the poultices. But the question trembling on my lips at this instant is whether my dearly beloved spouse is so exhausted mentally, morally, spiritually and physically"—he elevated an impertinent eyebrow at me—"that she cannot go out with me on a binge."

"Do you mean tomorrow night?" Katharine countered cautiously.

"Not necessarily," Dicky said, "but in the very, very near future. You were kind enough to say that you craved a job as a baby-sitter."

"Which I do," Katharine said, "although Faith is not a baby. She probably will do the sitting on me. And Madge can go at any time. But I wish you'd postpone the outing for one or two nights more—not longer."

"You're anticipating a further let-down in Mary?" Dicky asked hastily.

Our Palestine Decision

THE long-awaited United States policy declaration on Palestine supports the proposed partition into Jewish and Arab states. It could hardly do otherwise, for it isn't conceivable that Palestine could be turned over wholly to the Jews or to the Arabs.

It is a decision which will please neither racial group, for the Palestine problem is incapable of a perfect solution. But it is as feasible a compromise as impartial parties are able to devise, and if adopted, responsibility for it will rest not with the British but with the world.

There remains the question of how such a proposal will be received by the principals involved, especially the Arabs, who have shown no tendency to compromise. If the best plan reasonable men can offer isn't approved, the world will either have to abandon the quarrel and let the principals slug it out or stop it with executive force.

As U. S. delegate Johnson observed in his statement: "In the final analysis the problem of making any solution rests with the people of Palestine if new political institutions are to endure. They must provide for early assumption by the people of the responsibility for their own domestic order."

Russia already has approved the partition plan "in principle." When the report comes up for debate in the UN general assembly it will be interesting to observe what tortuous convolutions of thought lie hidden in that simple term, "in principle."

Picketing the Pickets

HUMAN nature being what it is, not many moderates in politics are likely to start picketing the pickets, but at least it has happened once. The most picketed politician in the United States, Senator Taft, finally has had the privilege of walking through a line of friendly pickets bearing placards praising, instead of abusing, him.

Taft was picketed and booed by leftists throughout his journey to the west coast and back. Whatever he may have gained in political strength in the last month is largely the work of the leftists who made it abundantly clear that he is the symbol of everything they are trying to destroy. Too late, the masterminds that guide the attack on the Ohioan are seeing the mistake of building him up at their expense as the symbol of political moderation in the United States.

Most political moderates, of course, are not picketminded. They'd rather take a licking than fight placards with placards. But if that's the kind of fight it's going to be there's always the possibility moderates might start picketing pickets on a national scale. Even the moderates can be pushed to the limit of the patience. That's their most conspicuous attribute in ideological warfare.

Government Shakeup

THE dropping of five ministers and the reduction of Emanuel Shinwell from cabinet status reportedly completes the Attlee government shakeup as Britain prepares to face another grim and unpromising winter. Appointment of Sir Stafford Cripps to the new post of economics minister was the first and perhaps the most important step in this reshuffling.

The names of the new ministers don't mean much to Americans because they are more or less unfamiliar. That this new blood will have the effect of a transfusion on Britain's economy is doubtful. The Attlee government was elected to deal with a crisis brought on by war and a generation of mismanagement of coal and other industries. But they're not paying off this year on integrity and good intentions. Results are what count.

So far Britain's Labor government hasn't succeeded in bringing Britain's needs into balance with production. That effort must come from the people. The government shakeup is evidence that effort hasn't been forthcoming.

Subsidized Sports

IN A BID to stop the rout of their athletes in international competition, the British are setting up subsidies for athletic training. With virtually every British championship in golf, tennis, cricket and boxing held by foreigners, the government will pay coaches to prepare athletes for international competition.

The golfers Britain sends abroad these days would scarcely be worthy to carry the clubs of such British greats of the past as Vardon and Ray. British tennis stars, both men and women, are run ragged by slashing, aggressive foreigners. British boxers, never world beaters, are no better than fourth-rate by our standards. Even their race horses, bred in the royal blue, have been disgraced since the war by French invaders.

The British have long been proud of the record as sportsmen. By taking steps to restore their fading prestige, the British may be heading off a terrific inferiority complex, even without which they have troubles enough.

Scanning the Record

By George E. Sokolsky

Troubles Traced to Official Irresponsibility.

THE record shows that most of our current trouble are due to official irresponsibility. The appalling fact about the Morgenthau diaries are they appear in their magazine version is official irresponsibility. Mr. Hull was secretary of state, but Mr. Morgenthau conducted a clandestine flirtation with the Russians at the suggestion of the president. Apparently, nobody told Hull anything.

This sort of thing goes on in every phase of official life. For instance, what came out at the Marzani trial was not so much the fact that the state department discovered that he was an active Communist but that he had been brought up on similar charges of OSS and had been exonerated. OSS was the top secret agency of counter-espionage. Here was a man in it who belonged to a fifth columun of a foreign country. He was brought up on charges as imperiling security. What happens to the irresponsible officials who permitted Marani and dozens like him to remain in OSS and OWI and in the state department?

Nowadays we are being given lots of talk about the hardships in Europe. Much of it is irresponsibility talk. Eugene McAuliffe, an important American mining engineer, writing of a visit to England in Mining and Metallurgy," says

British Work Troubles

"A British mine workday consists of seven and a half hours including 'one wind,' that is, the time required to move the men from the surface to the working face. The 'second wind,' is not paid for. The lunch period is paid for, and that tends to cut production. The contract provides for a work week of five days, with a provision that if the five days, Monday to Friday inclusive, are worked, the workman gets the sixth day's pay as a bonus. The national coal board and the minister of fuel and power have been sadly disappointed in the measure of absenteeism shown, averaging 10 to 11 per cent over the five days. Numerous illegal strikes occur from time to time, and . . . sports, dog races, tennis, cricket, and aquatic contests bulk too heavily in the British mind . . .

"It would ill become an American . . . to criticize either the labor government or the people; nevertheless I think that a demand for more definite action is necessary . . . In 1945, faced with the problem of fueling a great railroad, we put holidays behind us. For 25 consecutive weeks our mines worked seven days a week and the only holidays in the year receiving complete recognition were Easter Sunday, July 4, and Christmas. The least the British mines should attempt is an over-all day of nine hours, including winding time, and 30 minutes for lunch, leaving a production period of from seven to seven and half hours, six days per week. To secure this extension of working time, more substantial food should be furnished to mine workers who work, and more drastic action should be taken against voluntary and unnecessary absenteeism."

Production Essential

Naturally there will be shortages and want if production is down, particularly among a people who have to import their food. Our own officials are making it difficult for France to lay officials hands on French-owned dollars now actually situated within the United States, much of which was unpatriotically shifted here during a flight of capital and kept here in spite of French improverishment. This refugee capital—and there is much of it here from many countries—deserves little kindliness on our part.

This would seem to be the right time for American officialdom to begin to tell the truth. Policies adopted as far back as 1937 have proved tragically wrong. The bombshell that Mr. Roosevelt threw into the London economic conference proved to be a tragic error; the treaty between the United States and Soviet Russia and its constant violation by Russia with the connivance and consent of the American government; the profligacy of lend-lease and UNRRA; Teheran, Yalta, Potsdam, the American insistence upon the veto at San Francisco; the withdrawal of our troops from the capture of Berlin—these are a few tragic errors that we now face as facts that cannot be dodged. About them we have never had the full truth—not to this day.

Just a Minute

By JACK TARVER

The Customer Is Alawys Right

Two New York gunmen paused in the midst of a recent stickup to squeeze orange juice for their victims' squawling baby.

The mother could get along without her jewels, they probably reasoned, but the kid had to have its vitamin C.

The accommodating second-story man even removed the seeds from the justice before presenting it to the baby. Police are searching for a family-type criminal.

Whatever the trend on the international scene, on the local level at any rate we seem to be getting a more considerate variety of thug.

They still ask for your money or your life, but it just sounds better when they add: "Pretty please."

Yes sir, courtesy is the keynote of modern crime. Even the toughest hoodlum these days removes his hat before beating up old ladies.

Chilvalry isn't dead. It's just on the lam.

Uncle Sam Owe You Money?

By JANE EADS

A HALF million income tax refund checks, totaling about $22,500,000, are unclaimed every year.

The Bureau of Internal Revenue estimates that of 52,000,000 individual returns for 1946, some 31,000,000 called for refunds averaging around $45 apiece.

Among the largest piles of unclaimed checks were 52,000 for the Brooklyn office and 15,000 for the New York district, which includes the Wall Street section. Other districts holding large numbers of unclaimed checks included Chicago and Baltimore. The latter is where Washington's shifting population files its returns.

The bureau reports that although the payees of the 1946 checks are appearing or being found by the thousands internal revenue offices all through the country still hold large wads of unclaimed checks.

As soon as tax returns come in the offices get busy and write out refund checks, mailing them to the addresses given by individuals on the returns.

However, by the time they go through the regular channels and are delivered, lots of folks have moved, especially in the bigger cities.

It's not only that some of the 31,000,000 persons to whom checks for refunds are mailed move to other addresses.

"Some die, some become insane, some are in hiding from their wives or the law—anything—and can't be easily tracked down for love or money," an informant told me.

The postoffice is not allowed to deliver government checks to any forwarding address unless it has a formal notice of change of address filed by the individual concerned.

This is to prevent such checks from getting into improper hands. Thus the postoffice is required to return refund checks to the internal revenue office of the area where the addressee is supposed to be living.

The local collector's office where the return was filed holds the check for about six months. If it is then not called for he sends it to the general accounting office.

World Birth Rate Soaring

Sudden Upsurg Is Postwar Phenomenon.

THE difficulties confronting the world aren't holding down its birthrate. With the war's end, the birth rate of virtually every country has risen sharply. The Netherlands had the greatest percentage of increase in 1946 over 1945, 33 per cent. The United States increase in the year was 18.9 per cent.

Other percentages of increase are France 27, Italy 23.5, Romania 21.4, England 18.6, Japan 13.2, Canada 11.8, and Finland 7.6. No nation shows a decline of more than 6 per cent. The only nations with declines are Denmark, Switzerland, Sweden, Chile, Portugal and Mexico.

Considerable interest centers in the birth rate in Russia. Although no figures are available, there is good reason to believe there has been a very material increase since the war.

Of special interest is the experience of our two principal wartime enemies. For Germany the only figures available relate to the British zone for the first half of 1946 when the rate increased from 9.8 per thousand in January to 18.2 in June. Japan also has had a sharp increase, an especially abrupt rise occurring at the beginning of this year.

The general postwar rise, in all likelihood, is only a temporary phenomenon resulting in large measure from military demobilization, the reuniting of families and a sharp upsurge in marriages. The experience after World War I indicates that rising birth rates will halt suddenly, after which the trend will be generally downward.

Reichstag Ruins To Be Rmoved

By The Associated Press

BERLIN — The ruins of the Reichstag building, burned out by the Nazis in 1933 and struck by bombs during the war, finally are to be removed, according to plans adopted by the city planning commission. Its huge stone blocks are to be used in reconstruction work elsewhere.

The massive, roofless old Reichstag has stood like a dark haunt at the Brandenburg gate, just opposite the Tiergarten, these postwar years. For a time in 1945, just after the western powers joined in the occupation of Berlin, it was fenced in to keep the blackmarketers out.

Danger in High Prices

By MARK SULLIVAN

WASHINGTON, Oct. 13 — The campaign for saving food by President Truman's Citizens Food Committee, headed by Charles Luckman, comes more than two years after the ending of the war. The outstanding precedent for this attempt to achieve economy in use of food by voluntary action of individuals for a national purpose, is the similar campaign conducted during the first world war by Herbert Hoover, then Food Administrator. A test of success in the present drive is whether the people, two years after the war, will have the willingness and enthusiasm they had under actual stress of war in 1917-'18; whether the present appeal to economize for the sake of sending food to ameliorate distress among European peoples, will have the zealous co-operation that went with an appeal during actual war in which the slogan was "Food Will Win the War."

The 1917-'18 drive under Mr. Hoover brought about a national spirit not short of exaltation, and had a considerable part in the elevation Mr. Hoover came to have in public esteem. An account of the first world war drive (printed in the history, "Our Times," by the present writer), describes the national temper "which caused housewives and children and men to feel a glow of pleasure in helping toward a process which Hoover called 'food conservation' but which the millions of loyal participants in sacrifice preferred to call 'Hooverizing'—the word was used for anything that helped about food, mothers serving no more than was necessary, children wiping their plates clean. To be economical with food became a vogue with the smart, with the simple and sincere almost a prayerful rite."

Methods Are Same

The methods and appeals used in the first world war drive were much the same as those now getting under way under the present Citizens' Food Committee. There were wheatless Mondays and Wednesdays, meatless Tuesdays, porkless Thursdays and Saturdays. There were slogans of admonition on posters and in newspaper advertisements — "chew your food," "save meat, use more fish and beans," "save fats, use just enough."

With the serious ardor in which the economizing of food was carried out during the first world war went an unfailing characteristic of the American spirit, a humorous, gay geniality. The periodical "Life," then an organ of humor, alluding to a Biblical incident, declared that the "handwriting on the wall was a warning from Hoover to Belshazzar to cut out the feast business." In another issue "Life" admonished "Do not permit your child to take a bite or two from an apple and throw the rest away; nowadays even children must be taught to be patriotic to the core."

The present and recent "buyers' strikes" in some cities have also a precedent, though the one that took place in 1920 was nation-wide and had the status and flair of a national movement. The time of that early buyers' strike was analogous, in its relation to the war, to the present ones. Then, as now, there was, during a period from a year and a half to two and a half years following the ending of war a condition of high prices, accompanied, again then as now, by public resentment and agitation. Then as now there was demand that government do something about it. And government, national, state and municipal—took steps toward holding prices down through varying actions of legal compulsion, threat and persuasion.

More Serious Now

On the part of the public there arose a resistance to high prices which had much resemblance to the present. It was done partly in a spirit of gay and flaunting defiance. Women, ignoring or defying changes of style, wore their last year's hats and dresses, the wearing of old clothes became itself a vogue. "Our Times" records a stimulant to economy about clothes provided by a high public official: "William G. McAdoo, former Secretary of the Treasury, son-in-law of President Wilson, financially well able to buy a new suit and ordinarily meticulous about his raiment, appeared on the streets and had his photograph taken with patches on his trousers, patches of a newness which suggested that they were not really necessary, and of a conspicuousness which implied that the purpose was to make a vogue of thrift.

To compare the high-price condition following the first world war with the present one would mislead. The present condition is far more serious. Not that present prices are prevailingly higher, prices of some commodities in 1920 were higher than now. But the danger that the present high level of prices as to our national economy is far more serious—in the proportion, among other reasons, that the present national debt is some eight times what it was following the first world war.

Persons who realize the seriousness of the present high-price level in its relation to present grave danger of calamitous inflation will hope for success in any movement that tends to keep prices down. But they will want more to rely upon than sporadic buyers' strikes.

THE need of the world in today's desperate crisis is some Joe Page of global size. All the best advertised stars, the heavily press-agented celebrities, the glamour boys who are supposed to be full-distance pitchers, have been knocked out of the box. They are groggy and sore-armed. Their fast ball is no good and their curves aren't breaking. They can't find the plate.

Wondering

By TRUMAN TWILL

A fellow can't help wondering why dry cleaners don't use laundry marks instead of numerals; what was so all-fired funny about the button shoes that were a darned sight easier to manage than laces;

Why people insist on having their studio portraits retouched and fuzzed up so they look like somebody else, what the President of the United States and the First Lady talk about while she's rubbing on the cold cream and he's taking off his socks;

What sense there is in building automobiles to go 90 miles an hour when drivers are admonished to stay under 60, whether bright-eyed jingoists who want to fight Russia now and have it over with ever looked at a map of Russia read "War and Peace," or heard what happened to Napoleon and Hitler;

What induces young men to play football for fun when they could be getting paid for it whether Europeans who fall for red rule because they're hungry wouldn't fall for it anyway, does it really profiteth a man to eat spinach and lettuce because someone said they were healthful;

If America's national game isn't just a lot of tired performers exploited by businessmen who long ago ruined baseball as a sport, whatever became of all the rugged, dependable pens that were going to last forever.

Who is keeping the diaries and will write the reminiscences that will do for Truman what Farley and Morgenthau have done for Roosevelt, what gives anyone the right to criticize anyone else for his taste in fiction, movies, radio programs, household furnishings, women, houses and burial services;

Whether the bears in Yellowstone, as they pick out the place where they will snooze away the winter, realize they are well off, if we all dream about a white Christmas come next December, how many people would work another day if they didn't have to, how hard will posterity laugh at pictures of all of us wearing the height of today's fashion;

If the discovery of sedatives hasn't turned out to be a dirty trick because sedatives make things bearable that really aren't, if historians won't put it down as nearly incredible that Alcoholics Anonymous and the unrestricted sale of alcohol existed at the same time;

Whether mothers are still telling bright-eyed male kiddies that someday they'll be prexy of the U. S., if the ratio of red-headed people is rising in the national population, what would happen if the United States had a crop failure too whether going after hickory nuts was as much fun as it seemed to be;

And whether the garbage pails at the White House will be looked into from now on to make sure the cook isn't throwing away anything that the Republicans might like to take a picture of.

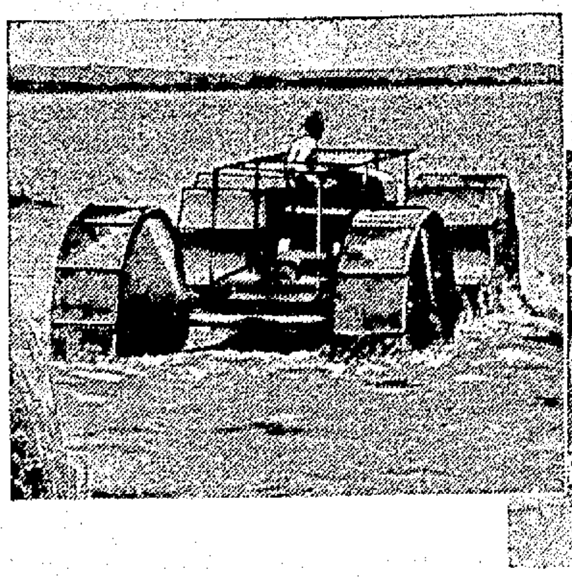
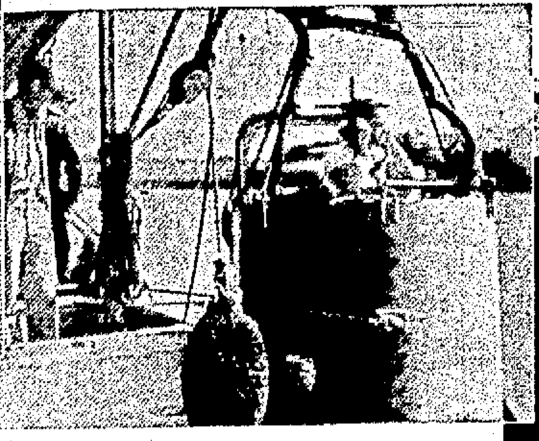
National guessing game shows lack of knowledge

In a big recent survey people were asked, among other things, how many individual oil companies there are in the U. S. Answers were really surprising! The average guess was 28. What do you think? 100? 150? Come again! There are actually 34,000* separate individual oil companies in the country. And that's in addition to 225,000 service stations. And what a rivalry it is! From the constant search for more crude oil, to striving for better cleaning of your windshield—it's a never-ending race. And it's a healthy sign for America—because it keeps oil companies on their toes all the time . . . keeps them progressive. And who actually wins in this race? You! For you get better products at lower cost.

*13,475 in production, 650 in transportation, 400 in refining, 20,000 in distribution.





Thanks to rivalry, we have greater known oil resources today than any time in U. S. history!

One of the most active rivalries in the world takes place all the time among U. S. oil companies in their hunt for new crude oil in the ground.

During the next two years, an estimated two billion dollars will be spent by companies of the petroleum industry in the search for new oil, the drilling of new wells, and production. This progressive work by oil companies will greatly increase America's resources. New scientific inventions, born of rivalry, play a big part in the hunt for oil. Amphibious "marsh buggies" (above left) will take crews to otherwise inaccessible areas. (middle) Diving bells, equipped with elaborate gravity meters, are used for hunting oil under the ocean. (right) Oil wells now "turn corners" far beneath the earth! Such directional drilling is another of the modern miracles developed through the rivalry of the thousands of U.S. petroleum companies.

"Transportation you never see or hear" saves you money

Most people are amazed when they discover that there is a vast 142,000-mile network of oil pipelines covering the U. S. And more are being added as fast as the steel shortage permits. These "hidden highways" actually carry ⅙th of all the freight tonnage in the U. S.! Rivalry among the oil companies to make their lines more efficient has resulted in new inventions such as the one which makes it possible to send 14 different oil products through a pipeline at the same time without harming any of them. Progressive developments like this have played a big part in keeping petroleum prices down. Gasoline actually costs you almost 50 per cent less today, minus taxes, than it did 25 years ago! That's progress—the petroleum way!

CIO Asked To Support Aid for World's Needy

By The Associated Press

BOSTON, Oct. 13—A Catholic archbishop today asked the CIO to support such parts of American foreign policy as will provide "food, money, coal, clothing, friendship and faith" for the needy of the world.

This plea—by Archbishop Richard J. Cushing of Boston—opened a CIO convention that is fast taking on international importance.

Secretary of State Marshall was the hottest topic as 600 or more delegates gathered for the first session.

In the midst of an international crisis, the CIO leadership invited Marshall here. He accepted yesterday and will speak Wednesday.

On all sides, this is being interpreted as a slap by the CIO at the Communists—within the CIO and elsewhere—who have been attacking Marshall and American motives in helping Europe.

Joseph O'Neill, president of the AFL Distiller Workers, threatened yesterday to sue the distillers for damages under the Taft-Hartley act on the ground closing down would be a violation of contract. He said the union would ask for a court injunction if necessary to keep the plants open.

Luckman also arranged to meet officials of the American Restaurant association to discuss compliance with President Truman's plan to conserve food by serving no meat on Tuesdays and no eggs or poultry on Thursdays.

PROSPECT LEAGUE MEETS

The Luther League of St Paul Lutheran church at Prospect met Wednesday night at the home of Miss Marjorie Behrens. Group singing opened the meeting, followed by responsive reading of Psalm 25. The program topic, "Time Out," was given by Rev. Paul E. Dobberstein. Plans were made for a Halloween party to be held Wednesday evening, Oct. 29, and a song and the Lord's Prayer by the group closed the meeting. A social hour followed with games in charge of Robert Mueck. The next meeting will be at the home of Robert Mueck.

Rail Freight Increases Go Into Effect Today

By The United Press

WASHINGTON, Oct 13 — Freight rates on the nation's railroads went up 10 per cent today amid the possibility the carriers might ask for another increase should operating employes get wage increases.

The 10 per cent increase today is an "interim" increase and is expected to provide $125,000,000 in additional revenue by the end of the year. The carriers have asked for an over-all 27 per cent increase from the interstate commerce commission.

THREE FIRES LISTED IN WEEKEND REPORT

Man Smoking in Bed Causes Hotel Blaze.

Electrical wiring defects caused three minor fires in Marion over the weekend, and an unidentified man smoking in bed caused another, Fire Chief Owen A. Sifritt reported today.

Firemen answered a call at 10:45 a. m. Saturday when overloaded electric lines caused wire insulation to burn in the Vayne Galliday Grocery at 900 Bennett street. Damage was not extensive.

A short circuit in the drafting room of the Pollak Steel company, 512 Cheney avenue, caused an estimated $5 or $10 damage to furniture in the room at 10:30 a. m. Saturday. Firemen from Station No. 1 answered the call.

A short circuit in a refrigerator motor owned by Harry Partridge of 462 South Prospect street caused the motor to stick and burn at 4:25 a. m. Sunday. Damage was estimated at $30.

An unidentified man smoking in bed at the Werley Hotel, 713 [illegible] street, set the bed on fire and caused an estimated damage of $50 at 2:32 a. m. Sunday. The burning mattress was thrown out the window, where firemen extinguished it.

YOUR HEALTH

By HERMAN BUNDESEN, M.D.

Children's Lunch Box

Now that schools have opened again, mothers are faced with the day-in-and-day-out problem of supplying a healthful noon meal which can be carried in the small compass of the lunch box.

It is not always an easy one. In the first place, such lunches are usually packed just at the height of the morning rush to get off to school when mother is likely to have many interruptions and other demands on her time. In the second place, her ingenuity is taxed to avoid monotony in the food served to her children in this way because it must be something that is easily carried.

Nevertheless mothers should realize that the child's nutrition will suffer if he does not have a well-balanced lunch. This meal should supply about one-third of the daily food. If it does not, it is very doubtful that the lack can be made up at he other two.

Now what foods should a good lunch contain?

First of all, the child needs meat or a meat substitute because these things contain protein for the repair of worn-out tissue and the building of new tissue. Sandwiches of meat, cheese or eggs will fill this requirement. Mothers should remember, however, that the child cannot eat the same type of sandwich every day, so that it is well to vary them as much as possible. Sometimes, for instance, give the child his meat in some other form, such as a piece of fried chicken, putting in a plain bread and butter sandwich to go with it.

The lunch should also supply a raw vegetable. Carrot or celery, either plain or stuffed with cheese is quite satisfactory. Then, too, a salad may be carried in a glass jar ora covered paper cup, such as those used commercially as ice-cream containers. A salad adds zest to the lunch and supplies vegetables which, in turn, furnish minerals and vitamins.

Milk may also be put into a small glass jar with a tightly fitting cover. However, the child, in many cases, will be able to purchase milk at lunch time.

Stewed fruit may also be carried in a jar if desired, but some kind of raw fruit in season is just as healthful and more convenient.

Sandwiches, as I mentioned, have always been the main part of lunch-box meals because they are easy to prepare and easy to carry. There are many varieties of sandwiches which may be used. The type of bread also may be varied, using white, whole-wheat, rye, graham, or raisin. Of course, the bread should be spread with butter or fortified margarine.

Here are some general suggestions which doubtless may be found useful in preparing the child's lunch or luncheon to be taken on picnics or outings:

1. Wrap each sandwich separately in waxed paper.
2. Include a napkin.
3. Vary the lunch as much as possible by using different fillings for sandwiches.
4. Make everything as appetizing as possible.
5. Include in the lunch all the essentials of a well-balanced diet, milk, vegetables, fruits, and meat or meat substitutes.

Such a lunch provides minerals, protein, vitamins, fats and sufficient carbohydrates or starches and sugar to maintain the child's energy.

APPOINTMENT MADE IN CANCER SERVICE

Mrs. Urton Anderson Takes Over Information Work.

Because of heavier public health nursing duties during the winter Mrs. Andrew Oswalt will discontinue her work at the Cancer Information Center, and the work will be taken over by Mrs. Urton Anderson, it was announced today. The information center, formerly located at 251 West Church street, is open each Tuesday afternoon from 1 to 4 o'clock in the downstairs reading room at the Y. M. C. A. Since its modest beginning in June, many people have visited the center seeking information on the symptoms, treatments and types of cancer. One patient was found with early cancer and is now under a physician's care; several have been examined at the clinic and it is not known how many visited their own physicians.

The cancer information center is free and a registered nurse is in attendance during the hours it is open.

Marion physicians and surgeons and members of the Marion Cancer society will join others in the state for the statewide training conference to be held at the Deshler-Wallick hotel in Columbus Tuesday and Wednesday. Planning to attend from Marion will be Mrs. J. Malcom Streitz, chairman, of the Marion Cancer society, Mrs. George E. Planck, vice chairman, Mrs. Harold K. Mouser, former chairman, Dr. A. E. Morrison and Dr. Frederick T. Merchant.

Discussions will be held on education and care of cancer patients and the work of the society by outstanding medical authorities in the state and nation and heads of the various cancer society units in Ohio and other states.

SLAIN MAN BELIEVED OHIO SOCIAL WORKER

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., Oct. 13—C. Pat McGuire, the name found in identification papers in an automobile used by the victim of an apparent slaying in a tourist cabin at Halethorpe, Md., is the pen-name of Dr. Charles Vaughn, 54, author of religious books and founder of Boy-Land, an organization helping young boys here.

Dr. Vaughn, editor of Boy-Land magazine, published at nearby Pataskala, left there Friday on an eastern business trip, H. C. Krehbiel, his associate, told the Ohio highway patrol. He planned to stop at Apollo, Pa., to see the publisher of his latest book, "Bread and Water of Affliction," and then go on to Washington today to discuss income tax matters at the bureau of internal revenue, Krehbiel said.

Rev. Frank H. Throop, pastor of the Central Presbyterian church here, said several attempts had been made on Dr. Vaughn's life because of his activities in helping boys.

"They have tagged him all around," Mr. Throop said. "I wouldn't be surprised to learn that those who opposed him are responsible for this."

He launched his Boy-Land movement here in 1943 after witnessing a street fight of four or five boys. He rented quarters and taught boys dramatics, hobbies and trades.

INDIAN ALPHABET

CHICAGO—The Quarrie corporation has given new impetus to the century-old crusade to teach India's millions to read. The publishing company has announced that it will cooperate with Mrs. E. W. Wilder, missionary, in popularizing a 28-letter aphabet to replace today's complicated writing in south India. Mrs. Wilder, who originated the new alphabet, has compiled it from the Roman alphabet, with no attempt made to change the sound or meaning of words.

Falling Plaster

Q. One of our ceilings has peeled. A large spot of the smooth plaster has fallen and left quite an area of rough ceiling. Should it all be taken down, or what? We do our own decorating.

A. I would not advise you to attempt the job yourselves. If the plaster is rough, a plasterer could apply a white finish coat over it. It is possible, however, that the affected area may not be suitable for the finish coat, in which case the plasterer could cut out the old and replaster.

Wall Covering Loosened

Q.: The linoleum wall covering in our rented home is pulling away from the wall and the plaster loosening, due probably to an upstairs leak. We cannot afford to put in tile, and wonder if the present covering can be re-cemented in any way.

A.: The plaster should first be stripped off and the damaged part replastered; unless, of course, the plaster has dried out and seems to be all right. The linoleum covering can be stuck back in place with linoleum cement. If you are not familiar with this type of work, you had better have an experienced workman do the job for you. Of course the leak upstairs should be attended to before the other repairs are made.

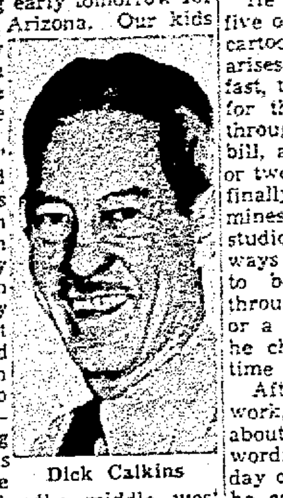
Creator of Buck Rogers, Space-Flying Man Of Future, Really Is Down To Earth Gu

By MARY HERRING

One would hardly expect a famous cartoonist when asked by telephone for an interview to say "climb on your horse and get down here."

But then Dick Calkins, creator of the Buck Rogers comic strip, is no ordinary cartoonist. Although his comic strip is "out of this world" and by his own admission some of the creator's antics are also "out of this world," Mr. Calkins in person is very much down to earth.

His strange telephone invitation Thursday was explained when he squirmed delightedly in his hotel chair, soared spiritually into the upper stratosphere with his brainchild, Buck, and blurted, "we're starting early tomorrow for our ranch in Arizona. Our kids are already there and in about five more days we will be."



Dick Calkins

The "we" are Mr. and Mrs. Calkins and when they both came fairly close to earth again, they stated that they had sold their home in the Chicago suburbs before coming here for this last lecture engagement in the middle west and were renting a portion of the well known 76 Ranch at Bonita, Ariz., for a year until they find the ideal place in the west to buy.

In the sunny corner room on the seventh floor at Hotel Harding, the main topic as far as the Calkins were concerned was the ranch. The Buck Rogers work ran a poor second best although Mr. Calkins was working on a strip that will appear in the papers carrying that feature during the week of Nov. 3.

Since the couple were so enthusiastic about their approaching adventure, their comments on past preparations and anticipation of reaching their future home were so genuine, the conversation apparently revealed the true thoughts and dreams of a famous couple, so perhaps it is right that Buck Rogers takes a back seat in this story.

Start of Idea

The idea of moving to the west started to grow when the couple spent some time in California. It continued to grow after they returned to their home near Chicago and when the opportunity came recently to acquire a portion of the 76 Ranch in Arizona, they snatched at it. They had seen the comparatively small adobe house on the ranch which the proprietress had recently started to remodel for her own use. When she offered the place to the Calkins they immediately made plans to move.

The sale of the Chicago home, where they have lived for 22 years was arranged and plans were completed to make the westward trek. Mr. Calkins then learned of this final engagement under his contract to speak at the Foremen's club in Marion. The son and daughter of the couple started for the future home the last week of September while Mr. and Mrs. Calkins prepared to come to Marion for the final engagement in this section.

Nan, 23, and her brother, Dick Jr., 21, bounced from Chicago to the ranch in a jeep and trailer, purchased for the occasion, taking the family dog and cat along. A wire to the parents informed them they made the trip in about five days.

The Calkins in the meantime delayed their trip for nine days to make the appearance here. Arriving here Tuesday afternoon, they "holed up", while Mr. Calkins turned the hotel room into a work shop furiously trying to make up for the week lost when they packed their belongings preparing to move.

Do Some Shopping

Enroute here they stopped periodically to make some essential purchases for the future home, which will be without electricity. Purchases included several kerosene lamps, one prize number which hangs from a bracket and sports a reflecting shade. Mrs. Calkins has that one picked to hang in the adobe kitchen. The lamps were purchased at an antique shop just after the couple landed over the Ohio line. Another purchase made there was for daughter, Nan, who collects bells. After making the purchase they wired the ranch telling her they had "picked up a small bell for her collection." The bell is a huge farm dinner bell.

Other purchases include a wind-up phonograph and non-electric irons. The couple swear they are not going to have a radio. Mrs. Calkins and her daughter are planning to install a kiln at the ranch and start making small pottery. Mr. Calkins said he had always wanted to write and his choice of the type of stories is the exact opposite of the comic strip which has been so popular for 18 years. He put it this way, "I'm going to chew tobacco, spit on the cactus and write westerns."

Although he has mulled over the idea of giving up the strip when he is settled, he added he probably wouldn't.

When he finally came back to his brain child, this information came to light—

He usually tries to keep about five or six weeks ahead, as do all cartoonists. When at home, he arises about 8 a. m., has breakfast, then drinks coffee until time for the mailman. After pawing through the "water bill and light bill, a couple more bills and one or two ads and maybe a letter" he finally decides to "get back to the mines." After going to his work studio, however, he said he always finds something that needs to be fixed so he rummages through the drawer hunting a nut or a bolt or some such item and he chuckled, "I can waste more time that way."

After really getting down to work, he can turn out a strip in about three hours, complete with wording. Two completed strips a day can be done comfortably, but he can do three under pressure. Sometimes they sail along, other times he runs up against a snag and like everything else, nothing seems to go right.

In the southwest room of the hotel, which sported two windows, he was working in between phone calls, visitors and questions, on the Nov. 3 comics. A white cardboard strip, 20x6 inches was lined into three blocks which are about one-half or one-third larger than the printed strip. He letters the comics first and this is done within lightly drawn lines at the top of each block. These later are enclosed in the "balloons." The lettering is done first since it is easier to draw the figures to correspond to the balloons.

How He Works

The basic plot for each episode is drawn up beforehand, but the individual obstacles which Buck Rogers must surmount to reach his goal are more or less spontaneous. Ideas are automatic, Mr. Calkins said, and one idea usually brings another one to mind, each increasing in suspense until finally the hero attains his goal. Some of his ideas come from present day news, some from scientific research.

As an instance he cited the recent stories on the flying saucers. When the first accounts appeared Mr. Calkins, in keeping with his unusual sense of humor, informed his superiors that "he was conducting some experiments with Buck Rogers and the appearance of the saucers were the result." The telegram was printed in Chicago papers.

He also put out a special drawing and article, (banged out by the pick and peck system) after the first atomic bomb hit Hiroshima. That too was blown up into a half-page cut and the article took a front page spread with the headlines "Dick Calkins, Buck Rogers sue the government."

His first job paid him $9 a week and he acquired it when the staff of the Detroit Free Press figured if he was going to hang around Edgar A. Guest's desk so much he might as well be working. At that time he drew lines around illustrations. The first sketch was made for fun when he saw the Follies of 1916. It caught on and more sketches were demanded and he was on his way. For a time he worked on a Chicago paper doing sketches of scenes and also of corpses at the morgue to be used for identification.

Always fond of writing, his first composition was written in the eighth grade "when I should have been studying." It bore the impressive title of "30th Century Mystery." The hero, Karl Ketchem-Kwik, sported a derby hat and a cigar. He wore a "flying belt" which was a contraption that looked very much like an electric fan strapped around his middle. One of the prize inventions in that script was a scrub brush suspended from the air whereby the hero could fly up, have his face washed with a quick swipe and be off. That according to Mr. Calkins solved the dreaded problem of daily ablutions in a manner which delighted the small boy mind. Maybe he still had that first composition in mind when years later Buck Rogers was born. The eighth grade masterpiece is cherished by Mr. Calkins mother.

All Art Euthusiasts

All four members of the family are art enthusiasts. Mrs. Calkins for a number of years drew illustrations for Child Life and has also had a book published. She plans to start doing portraits. The daughter is interested in graphic art and Dick Jr., a veteran, who until recently has been a student at the art institute in Chicago, is going to apprentice himself to his father and help with the B Rogers strip while he is ing.

When Mr. Calkins was un to enter service in World W he enrolled with the Red C and served on the home fron drawing for and talking t erans in hospitals. His excel work in the psychopathic war the Chicago veteran's hospital passed off in a joking mann "some people thought the v were crazy and the vets thou I was so we got along swell". Calkins was the only Red Cr worker assigned to that ward his gratifying record speaks itself. He served in the air in World War I.

A man of medium height, has gray hair and sparkling br eyes which look owlishly over specially built horned rim bifocals which he wears w working. His laugh is spo taneous and frequent. He keep up a running conversat even while working, althoug switched to sketching figures stead of lettering the drawin because he was afraid of putt down what he was saying inste of what went with the strip.

His nimble fingers, ink spl tered of course, move with lig ning quick strokes. To watch a see a character grow rapidly w the bold, sure lines is tr fascinating. His drawing is d with such ease that it looks d ceptively simple.

Man of Many Moods

His moods are many and can be completely serious one se ond then switch with devil cleverness to a hilarious antic some sort. For example, wh the comment was voiced about changing glasses before go from the room. He started explain about the special glass With a completely serious fa he started a mumbled expla ation about the condition of eyes and all the while he w winding a rubber band arou the end of a long ruler fasten a pencil to it. When he had t contraption completed he push back the chair and said "I fou I had to work about this far aw from the board and it was awful hard", he looked up then a grinned impishly before this r porter realized he was mere acting up. He had been serious.

His final question to his wi when preparing to go down lunch was "Marge do you thi I'd better put on my serious pr fessor's face with the long gr beard, or the one with the horn She settled for the one with either beard or horns and as turned to get ready he chuckl and said "Isn't it wonderful spite of everything, she still lo me".

Harding and Lima Bands Stage Colorful Show at Grid Game

By FRANCES HAAS

ceptional performances were turned in by both the Harding band and the visiting band from the Lima South school and night" was observed at the Harding-Lima South foot- me Friday night at Harding stadium. This particular night aside by the Marion Athletic association for the purpose of bands, which add the game and entertain at halftime with spec- performances.

intricate formations were presented by the two organizations, with the the Harding band rec- by fans as the best they ever given.

Outstanding Feature

nting the Harding band nce was dramatizing of ular descriptive song, Lamplighter." The field ened, and while the band the song and Jim Rea, a of the senior choir, sang, old style street lamps, at various spots in the cen- the field, were lighted by Ambrose, one of the band members. The lighting effects and properties for the scene were by D. A. Brown of the Radio Service and Levi Welch, superintendent of school buildings.

The Harding band opened its show, which constituted the last part of the halftime intermission, with a fanfare combined with a drill in which the band marched down the field with the various rows revolving.

Colorful Scene by Lima

The visiting Lima South band spelled out "HI" in the center of the field to start off its show, and followed this up immediately with an "M" for Marion. They then formed a bubble pipe from which, with special lighting effects, bubbles could be seen coming forth. During this, they played "I'm Forever Blowing Bubbles."

Completing the halftime performances, the two bands combined to first form the letters, "LS" and play the Lima South school song under the direction of the Lima director, Charles Luoma, and then form an "HH" for Marion and play the Harding Alma Mater song for the home fans.

Tribute to Director

Following this, as a surprise to both directors, Homer Huffman of Harding and Charles Luoma of Lima South, the two bands paid tribute to their directors with the Harding band going into the word "HOMER" and facing the Marion fans, and the Lima South band spelling "LUOMA" and facing their own fans. The formations were worked out previously by both organizations without the directors knowing of it.

Then, as the bands remained in these positions, short talks were given by Sherman Clark, president of the Lima South High Band Parents association, and John F. Lacey, immediate past president of the Harding Band and Orchestra Parents association, speaking for James Lytle, first vice president of the club who was unable to attend. L. C. Jones, supervisor of vocal music in the city schools, was master of ceremonies in the absence of E. E. Holt, superintendent of Marion schools.

Preceding the game, a fanfare and presentation of colors took place. The Harding band came onto the field and spelled "HOWDY" to the Marion fans and then to the visitors, and tossed their caps in salute. The two bands then combined to play the National Anthem for the flag raising.

As is the practice of the Harding band, they again marched to the stadium from town. Leading the group were the drum major, Paul Arndt, the majorettes, Martha Douce, Elaine Everett and Dorothy Cooper, and the newly acquired pair of mascots, Mike Fellabaum and Jax Carroll.

One Man's Opinion

By WALTER KIERNAN

There is less squawking about high prices since the discovery that Lincoln paid $375 for a bed . . . And there were no more slats in it than you've got.

* * *

We since had had presidents who would pay to get into the bed and pull the covers up over their heads . . . Wouldn't he?

* * *

But the attic discovery touched off a rash of top-floor treks around the nation . . . We found in our acttic an elderly man claiming to be General Sherman.

I said, "How long have you been hiding here?" he said: "Since I was mentioned for the presidency . . . Tell me, what poor devil did they capture?"

* * *

When told the voters had since got one man four times he shook his head and said "He just wan't resistin'."

I hear that now that Lincoln's receipts have been found the search has been renewed for Hoover's rubbers.

LOCKLAND LEGION OVERPOWERS MARION ANGELS, 20-0

Running and Passing Offensive Of Hosts Snows Locals Under

Marion Safety Cab Angels were overpowered, 20-0, by the strong Lockland Legion gridders before a capacity crowd of 3,000 at Lockland Sunday.

Unleashing a powerful running and speedy passing attack in the last three quarters, the Lockland pros proved too much for the locals.

The first quarter saw the Angels deep in Lockland territory as a result of Roseberry's block of Scheutte's punt on the Lockland 33. The Angels then penetrated to the Lockland 20 when the drive stalled and the Legion pros took over on downs.

Pass Brings Score

Lockland scored early in the second period when Hawkes chucked a long 35-yard pass to Wesley from the Angel 42 and Wesley galloped over for the touchdown. Bray's conversion was good.

The Angels came back late in the quarter with a passing attack that racked up four straight first downs and put the Cabbies on the Lockland eight with Simmons and Ivey tossing. Bob Ivey's next pass was intercepted by Osterman as the half ended.

In the third quarter, Lockland's Dewey intercepted a Simmons pass on the Angel 40 setting up the second Legion score. Dewey ripped off tackle for 15 yards, and Souder went through tackle for 25 yards and the tally. Again Bray's conversion was good.

Score Third Touchdown

Lockland's third touchdown was set up by an aerial from Hawkes to Chipman which moved them to the Maron 35. Hoff smashed through center to the 14, and Wheeler scampered around right end to score standing up behind some excellent interference. Bray's try was not good.

During half time, impressive ceremonies in tribute to returning war dead were conducted by the Lockland American Legion Post.

OUTLOOK FOR O.S.U. IN SATURDAY'S GAME WITH IOWA DARKENS

Coach Fesler Glooms After 32-0 Whitewash Administered by U.S.C.

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., Oct. 13—Ohio State's outlook for next Saturday's game with Iowa's Hawkeyes isn't so bright that Coach Wesley E. Fesler has to wear smoked glasses.

The Buckeye mentor, who is having troubles aplenty in his first year at the helm of his alma mater's football craft, looked back today on Saturday's startling 32-0 defeat at the hands of Southern California and said:

"All we can do is keep trying."

The Trojan's big and fast, wrapped the Bucks into a rather neat package and stowed 'em away among their victory trophies. The visitors stepped off the train after a 2,300-mile ride, scored twice on passes, twice on rushes and once in an intercepted aerial—duplicating Purdue's feat of scoring in every period — and climbed back on the train with practically everything except Ohio's best wishes. They were in town less than 24 hours, but what a day it was.

First Shutout Since '43

The games was the first since 1943 in which Ohio had failed to score, and both the offense and defense bogged down, although the new forward wall looked better. The Bucks gained only 55 yards on the ground, got inside the foe's 30-yard line only once, and lost the ball twice on fumbles and three times on pass interceptions. The Trojans had third and fourth stringers in the game in the final quarter and the visiting reserves scored twice.

The pre-season dope had Ohio a favorite over Iowa, and that thought gained strength as the Hawks dropped a 22-7 game to U. C. L. A. and a 35-12 decision to Illinois. But while the Bucks were fading against Purdue and the Trojans, the Iowa boys came to life and turned in a 27-14 victory over Bo McMillin's "pore little" Indiana boys Saturday.

Air Attack Clicks

The Hawks soared through the air to down the Hoosiers, adding more worries to Fesler's woes, for his 5-4-2 defense is not regarded as the safest bulwark against overhead attacks. Little Al DiMarco, five-foot, eight-inch 160-pound master of the "T" for Iowa Coach Eddie Anderson, threw three touchdown tosses to Emlen Tunnel, Negro halfback, against Indiana, and hit him with a 26-yard heave to set up the fourth marker. In all, DiMarco passed 14 times and connected on 10 of 'em for 198 yards.

Fesler and his aides will view the motion pictures of Saturday's rout today, and then attempt to fix the weak spots. He indicated yesterday that he didn't think personnel changes would help much, since he felt the best material available was being used in the first string jobs.

2,000 See Six-Man Football Exhibition As LaRue, Caledonia Battle to 20-20 Tie

LaRue and Caledonia fought to a 20-20 tie in a thrilling six-man football game at Harding stadium Saturday night to remain in first place tie for the lead in the Double M six-man league. A crowd of over 2,000 fans saw the sports debut in Marion.

The two well-matched teams gave one of the best exhibitions of six-man play ever staged. The play was featured by hard blocking and tackling by both clubs all the way to the final gun. The outcome of the game was in doubt throughout the four periods.

Caledonia was the first to score when Comstock went over from close on the last play of the first quarter, after a long run by Robertson had brought the ball to the LaRue 10-yard line. The LaRue team got going in the second session and a long run by Robertson had brought the ball to the LaRue 10-yard line. The LaRue team got going in the second session and a long run by Ledman on an end around brought the ball to the 10-yard line. A buck by Lightfoot took the ball to the one-yard line and Fletcher cut back inside end for the tally.

Replaces Drop Kicker

Fletcher was replacing Ralph Wilson who had sprained both ankles in the middle of the second stanza. Both teams missed on conversion attempts as a drop kick try by the Donians was wide and a pass failed after the LaRue touchdown. The LaRue team was playing for one point after touchdown with Wilson, expert drop kicker, out of the contest.

In the second half LaRue grabbed the lead when Ballinger took a lateral from Ledman on the five-yard line after the LaRue captain had carried the ball for a 20-yard gain. A pass from Tate to Lingo made the score 13-6.

Caledonia came back a few moments later when Robertson took a lateral following a short pass over the line and galloped 20 yards for a touchdown. A drop kick by Armbruster gave the East Side team a 14-13 lead at the end of the third period.

LaRue Takes Lead

Early in the last stanza Brocklesby intercepted a pass from Fleming and romped 30 yards to score and Tate ran around end for the extra point to give LaRue a 20-14 lead. Caledonia tied the score in the last four minutes when Armbruster went over on a cross back from the five-yard line. The Danians elected to play for two points on the conversion and the drop kick attempt was blocked by Brocklesby, LaRue end.

With the score tied both teams made a desperate bid to win. LaRue carried the ball on a series of plays to the Caledonia 30 and tried to pass and the attempt was intercepted by Robertson who was thrown out of bounds on the LaRue 20 as the game ended.

CALIFORNIA, MICHIGAN SEEM TO BE SLATED FOR ROSE BOWL BIDS

Crisler's Wolverines, Waldorf's Golden Bears Show Class of Conferences.

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, Oct. 13 — With each succeeding Saturday in this dizzy football season, it looks more and more like Fritz Crisler, who turned down the coaching job at California, and Lynn Waldorf, who didn't, will be looking across the field at each other in Pasadena on New Year's day.

When California went looking for a new coach at the end of a 1946 season in which the Golden Bears won only two games, Crisler was the No. 1 choice. But Crisler took one look at his prospective Wolverine roster and elected to stay at Michigan.

Waldorf, who gave up a comfortable position at Northwestern and took the California post on which Crisler turned his back, returned to the Big Nine country last Saturday and sent his now-ferocious Bears waltzing through Wisconsin to the tune of 48-7.

That was the fourth triumph in four starts for California, which now finds six straight Pacific coast conference opponents in its path to the loop championship and its accompanying role as Rose Bowl host.

Michigan, meanwhile, flattened Pittsburgh, 69-0, for its third straight one-sided non-conference win. Crisler's powerful Wolverines also are ready to launch their Big Nine campaign, with six league foes challenging their right to the Rose Bowl bid.

While Michigan and California were winning with ease last week, such other powers as Notre Dame, Texas and Georgia Tech were more or less hard pressed to keep their records clean.

Notre Dame relied on the passing of Johnny Lujack to turn back stubborn Purdue, 22-7. Texas banked chiefly on Bobby Layne's throwing arm for a 34-14 triumph over an Oklahoma team that covered 263 yards on the ground. And Georgia Tech found VMI tough to take, 20-0.

"We Were Ripe for Licking," Says Brown After 13-10 Defeat

By The Associated Press

CLEVELAND, Oct. 13—"We were ripe for a licking and we got a good one," Coach Paul Brown remarked today as he surveyed the damage in the wake of the Cleveland Browns' first loss in 12 All America football conference games—a 13-10 decision to the Los Angeles Dons.

The damage included serious injuries to two first-string Browns—center Mike Scarry and end Dante Lavelli.

Scarry's right leg was numb from the knee down, while Lavelli came up with some injured ribs. Both players were to undergo X-rays today to determine the extent of their injuries.

As for the game itself, the Dons are rapidly becoming a nemesis for the Browns. The Clevelanders were top-heavy favorites when they moved into Los Angeles last November. They emerged from the tussle a 17-16 loser.

Won 11 in Row

From that date until yesterday the Browns had won 11 in a row, six last year — including the championship playoff — and five this season.

The Dons, who haven't gone anywhere in the western division, entered yesterday's game with a record of three losses in five games. They had nothing to lose—and they won.

The Browns started out as if they were going to snow the Dons under. Lou Groza booted a 28-yard field goal in the early minutes of the first quarter and the Clevelanders then marched to a touchdown in seven plays, with fullback Marion Motley on the scoring end of a 14-yard jaunt. Groza added the extra point and the Browns were out in front 10-0.

The Dons then started the slow process of cutting down the Browns' lead. Motley was hit hard on his own 39-yard line in the second period. The ball popped out of his arms and Chuck Fenebock snatched it out of the air and tore down the sideline for a touchdown. Ben Agajanian, whose foot decided the game in the final period, booted the extra point and the Browns' lead was cut to three points.

Fumble Counts Again

Another fumble by Motley set the Dons up for a score in the third period. Check Fenebock recovered the Cleveland fullback's bobble on the Los Angeles' 49. The Dons gained only five yards in three plays and Agajanian dropped back to notch a 46-yard field goal—longest of the year in the league—and the score was deadlocked.

The Dons started a bruising march down the field in the final quarter. Jarrin' John Kimbrough drove for a first down on the Cleveland 13, but Weldon Humble recovered Charlie O'Rourke's fumble on the Browns' 13.

The Dons got another chance later in the period when Bill Lund fumbled on his own 33 and Joe Aguirre scooped up the ball and raced to the Cleveland nine. The Browns' line held for three plays and Agajanian tried a field goal from the Browns' 23. It was wide, but the Browns were offside and he had another chance.

This time his boot from the 17 was good and the Browns trailed with two minutes and 45 seconds to go.

The Browns moved swiftly up the field, but time was running out. Groza then made a desperate try to tie the score with a 50-yard field goal attempt but it was wide and the Dons were in.

Agajanian lost the toes off his right and kicking foot in a college accident.

TOUCH FOOTBALL 11'S PLAY 2ND SESSION

Second week of the Y.M.C.A.-sponsored grade school touch football ended Saturday afternoon with Silver, Oak, Greenwood, Pearl, Olney, and North Main winning.

Silver aerials from Simpkins to Hunt and from Wait to Simpkins garnered touchdowns as Silver outscored St. Mary, 12-6. A pass from Merchant to Anderson was good for the St. Mary tally.

Delander ran around end for a touchdown, and a sleeper pass from Alex to Freshour made the extra point as Oak edged Oakland, 7-6. A Stofer to Irvine pass connected for the Oakland score.

Two aerials from Nash to Hall accounted for Greenwood's shutout over Forest Lawn, 13-0. A Nash to Hammon pass made one conversion.

Pearl beat Mark, 12-0, with Evans' recovery of a Mark fumble on the goal line accounting for one score, and Young's end run making another.

Olney's Beechum scored touchdowns on two end sweeps to stop George Washington, 12-0.

North Main won over Glenwood, 1-0, by a forfeit.

PHILADELPHIA—Almost one million Americans are offsetting high prices and shortages of labor and materials by turning their homes into well-equipped miniature factories. Upwards of 850,000 homes now have workshops equipped with modern power tools, according to R. Robert Zisette, general sales manager of S. K. F. Industries, Inc. In a report on production of small anti-friction bearings for home workshop equipment, Zisette noted 80 per cent of home builders now specify garage or basement workshops in their original plans.

WAR ASSETS ADMINISTRATION

U.S.S.R. Seen Avoiding Break Now with U.S.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Oct. 13—Despite Russia's all-out battle against the Marshall plan, top American informants now predict the Soviet Union will stop short of a final breakdown of relations with this country any time soon.

This estimate, it was learned from official sources, is entering into basic planning now being undertaken for the Big Four foreign ministers meeting Nov. 25 at London and German and Austrian peace settlements. It also figures in development of American policies in the current United Nations meeting at New York.

The view is that Russia will campaign to the limit against the United States on great world issues but will not at this point be willing to wreck any important piece of machinery for international negotiation.

CHILD-CARE SOLUTION

By International News Service

CORVALLIS, Ore. — Everybody's happy about Oregon's solution to the problem "What to do with the kids when the older folks are out working in the fields?" Last year there were 1045 children under 14 in seven Oregon farm labor camps. Twenty-three churches got together and supplied teams of college girls interested in sociology who got some practical experience in child care.

PROPOSED AMENDMENT TO THE CONSTITUTION OF OHIO

Proposing to amend Article VIII of the Constitution of the state of Ohio to provide for the payment of compensation by the state of Ohio to its residents who shall have served in the armed forces of the United States in World War II, or to their survivors, and to issue bonds of the state of Ohio to provide the funds therefor.

Be it resolved by the General Assembly of the State of Ohio, three fifths of the members elected to each house thereof concurring therein, That there shall be submitted to the electors of the state of Ohio, in the manner prescribed by law, at the general election to be held on the first Tuesday after the first Monday in November, 1947, a proposition to amend Article VIII of the Constitution of the state of Ohio by adding thereto immediately after section 2a of said Article a new section as follows:

2b. The board of commissioners created by section 8 of Article VIII of the Constitution of the state of Ohio, designated therein "The Commissioners of the Sinking Fund", shall, forthwith upon the adoption of this amendment, proceed to issue and sell, from time to time, bonds of the state of Ohio in such amounts of face value as it may deem necessary to provide the funds, or such part thereof, as may be required to pay the compensation and the expenses of administering this section as herein provided for, provided, however, that the aggregate total amount of face value of bonds so issued shall not exceed three hundred million dollars. The full faith and credit of the state of Ohio is hereby pledged for the payment of such bonds. All bonds so issued shall mature in thirty semi-annual installments after the respective dates thereof, and the maturities thereof shall be so fixed that the total amounts of payments on account of principal and interest to be paid on each of such semi-annual installment payment dates shall be approximately equal, but no such bonds shall be issued or bear dates later than the first day of April, 1951. All bonds so issued shall bear interest at such rates as The Commissioners of the Sinking Fund may fix, which interest shall be payable semi-annually. Such bonds, and the interest thereon as income, shall be exempt from all taxes levied by the state of Ohio or any taxing district thereof. The bonds may, at the option of the Sinking Fund Commission, be issued subject to call on any interest payment date at par and accrued interest. All sales of such bonds by The Commissioners of the Sinking Fund shall be in accordance with such regulations as it shall make and promulgate, provided, however, that such bonds shall be sold only to the highest bidder or bidders therefor after notice of such sale shall have been published once each week for three consecutive weeks on the same day of each of such weeks, the first of such notices being published at least twenty-one full days before the date of sale, in a newspaper of general circulation in each of the eight most populous counties in the state of Ohio, and provided that each of such published notices shall state the day, hour and place of the sale, the total face value of the bonds to be sold, their denominations, dates, and the dates of their maturities, information relative to the rates of interest which the bonds will bear, and the dates upon which interest will be payable. The Commissioners of the Sinking Fund shall have the right to reject any or all bids and to re-advertise and re-offer bonds for sale. Out of the proceeds of the sale of all bonds that amount which represents accrued interest, if any, shall be paid into the treasury of the state of Ohio into a fund to be known as the World War II Compensation Bond Retirement Fund. The balance shall be paid into the treasury of the state of Ohio into a fund to be known as the World War II Compensation Fund. The General Assembly of the state of Ohio may appropriate and cause to be paid into the World War II Compensation Bond Retirement Fund or the World War II Compensation Fund, out of the funds in the treasury of the state not otherwise appropriated, such amounts as it may deem proper for use upon order of The Commissioners of the Sinking Fund for the purposes for which such funds are created as herein provided. If the General Assembly should so appropriate any funds to the World War II Compensation Fund prior to the time The Commissioners of the Sinking Fund shall have issued bonds of the aggregate total amount of face value authorized in this section, the aggregate total amount of face value of bonds so authorized to be issued shall be reduced by the amount of the funds so appropriated.

During the period of fifteen years beginning January 1, 1949, the treasurer of state of the state of Ohio shall, without appropriation thereof by the General Assembly, transfer into said World War II Compensation Bond Retirement Fund one million dollars each month out of funds in the state treasury derived from taxes levied by the state for the purpose of providing revenues to defray the expenses of the state, excepting the taxes levied by the state by sections 5527, 5541, and 5291 of the General Code of Ohio as the same may be in effect on the effective date of this section. To secure such monthly transfer of funds a lien is hereby created upon all funds coming into the state treasury after January 1, 1949, derived from taxes as aforesaid, which lien shall be the first and best lien upon all such funds. It shall be the duty of the treasurer of state to set aside and use for the purpose of making such monthly transfer of funds, part of each dollar received in the state treasury in each calendar year during said period of fifteen years beginning January 1, 1949, derived from taxes as aforesaid, so that the total amount of money so set aside in each of such calendar years shall be twelve million dollars, and so that the ratio which the amount of each dollar so set aside shall bear to one dollar shall be the same as the ratio which the amount of twelve million dollars shall bear to the total amount of money received in the state treasury in such calendar years derived from taxes as aforesaid. The treasurer of state shall set aside such part of each such dollar before paying out, transferring, or disposing of in any other manner, such dollar or any part thereof for any other purpose whatsoever, and he shall make the transfer of one million dollars each month to the World War II Compensation Bond Retirement Fund hereinabove provided for, out of said sum of twelve million dollars so set aside in each of such calendar years.

The Commissioners of the Sinking Fund shall, on or before the first day of July in each calendar year, levy and certify to the auditor of the state of Ohio a state tax on all taxable property subject to taxation on the general tax lists of all counties in the state of Ohio for such year at such rate as it shall determine to be necessary to provide, together with other money which will be available in the World War II Compensation Bond Retirement Fund, the total amount of funds which will be required in the next following calendar year for the retirement of bonds and the payment of interest payable in such year. Such levy shall be in addition to all other taxes levied now or hereafter within the period during which bonds issued pursuant to the provisions of this section shall be outstanding, by or pursuant to law or any provision of the Constitution of the state of Ohio, and shall not be considered in applying any limitation or aggregate tax rates now or hereafter within the period during which bonds issued pursuant to the provisions of this section shall be outstanding, provided by or pursuant to law or any provision of the Constitution of the state of Ohio. The auditor of state shall certify such levies to the auditor of each county in the state of Ohio, who shall extend the same on the tax lists of his county for the year in which such levy is made and shall place same for collection on the tax duplicates of his county to be collected at the same time and in the same manner as other taxes on such duplicates. Said taxes herein authorized, when collected, shall be paid into the World War II Compensation Bond Retirement Fund in the treasury of the state. The World War II Compensation Bond Retirement Fund shall be paid out, without appropriation thereof by the General Assembly of Ohio, upon the order of The Commissioners of the Sinking Fund for the purpose of the payment, or retirement in other manner, of said bonds and interest thereon.

The World War II Compensation Fund shall be paid out upon order of The Commissioners of the Sinking Fund, without appropriation by the General Assembly of Ohio, in payment of the expenses of administering this section, and as compensation as follows: every person who shall have served in active duty in the armed forces of the United States at any time between December 7, 1941, and September 2, 1945, both dates inclusive, and who, at the time of commencing such service, was and had been a resident of the state of Ohio for at least one year immediately preceding the commencement of such service, and who shall have been separated from such service under honorable conditions, or who is still in such service, or who has been retired, and was was in such service for a period of at least ninety days, shall be entitled to receive compensation of ten dollars for each month during which such person was in active domestic service and fifteen dollars for each month during which such person was in active foreign service within said period of time; provided, however, that any person who was serving in active duty in the armed forces of the United States on the seventh day of December, 1941, and who did not so serve at least ninety days thereafter because of a service-connected injury or death shall be deemed to have served at least ninety days within the period of time commencing December 7, 1941 and ending September 2, 1945; and provided, further, that the maximum amount of compensation payable under this section shall not be in excess of four hundred dollars; and provided, further, that no compensation shall be paid under this section to any person who shall have received from another state a bonus or compensation of a like nature as is provided under this section. No compensation shall be paid under this section to any person for any periods of time spent under penal confinement during the period of active duty. Compensation for a fraction of a month of service shall be paid on the basis of one thirtieth of the above monthly amounts for each day of such service. Service in the merchant marine of the United States shall not be considered for the purpose of this section. "Domestic service" as used herein means service within the continental limits of the United States (excluding Alaska). "Foreign service" as used herein means service in all other places, including sea duty.

Either the surviving husband or wife, or the surviving child or children, or the surviving parents or parent, of a deceased person shall be paid the same amount of compensation that such deceased person would be entitled to receive under this section if living; provided, however, that if such deceased person's death was service-connected and in line of duty, his survivors as hereinbefore designated, shall be paid four hundred dollars regardless of the amount of compensation which such deceased person would be entitled to receive under this section, if living; provided further, that the amount of compensation payable to such survivors of such deceased person shall be payable only to one of the three groups of survivors hereinbefore designated in the order in which said groups are herein named; and provided further, that the surviving husband or wife of more than one deceased person who would be entitled to receive compensation under this section, if living, shall be paid only that amount of compensation payable by reason of the first of the deaths of such deceased persons.

No sale or assignment of any right or claim to compensation under this section shall be valid, no claims of creditors shall be enforceable against rights or claims to or payments of compensation under this section, and no fees shall be charged for services in connection with the prosecution of any right or claim to compensation or the collection of any compensation under this section.

The Commissioners of the Sinking Fund shall have complete charge of making payments of the compensation provided for in this section and shall adopt and promulgate regulations governing their procedure in connection therewith, including determinations as to who are proper beneficiaries and amounts to which such beneficiaries are entitled, determinations as to whether an applicant has the necessary residence requirements, and such other regulations as it may deem necessary and proper; provided, however, that all applications for payment of compensation under this section shall be made to The Commissioners of the Sinking Fund before July 1, 1950.

The Commissioners of the Sinking Fund shall select and appoint such legal counsel and employees as it may deem necessary, fix their compensation and prescribe their duties, and all such appointees shall serve at its pleasure.

The people of the state of Ohio declare that their enactment of this special amendment of the Constitution of the state of Ohio is to meet the specific emergency covered thereby, and they declare it to be their intention to in no manner affect or change any of the existing provisions of the said Constitution except as herein set forth. The provisions of this section shall be self executing.

Upon the retirement of all of the bonds that may be issued hereunder and the payment of all valid claims for compensation made within the limitations of time as prescribed herein, The Commissioners of the Sinking Fund shall make a final report to the General Assembly of Ohio, and any balance remaining in any of the funds herein created and referred to shall be disposed of as shall be provided by law.

Be it further resolved, That at the election herein designated for the submission of this amendment to the electors of the state of Ohio, the same shall be placed on the official ballot in the manner prescribed by law and shall be designated as follows:

	YES	To amend Article VIII of the Constitution of the state of Ohio to provide for the payment of compensation by the state of Ohio to its residents who shall have served in the armed forces of the United States in World War II, or to their survivors, and to issue bonds of the state of Ohio to provide the funds therefor.
	NO

And be it further resolved, That the required publication of the said proposed amendment shall be made and the form of ballot to be used in said election for the submission thereof shall be prepared by the secretary of state of the state of Ohio in conformity with the above provisions. If a majority of the electors voting on said amendment shall be declared according to law, to have voted in favor thereof, the governor of the state of Ohio shall make proclamation thereof forthwith.

Researchers Look Up Tomato's Family Tree

By The United Press

BERKELEY, Calif. — Discovery of the basic genetic differences among various kinds of tomatoes is the aim of intensive research being carried on by the University of California college of agriculture here.

Under the direction of Dr. James A. Jenkins, geneticist, the college has collected about 150 samples of wild and cultivated tomatoes from Mexico, where the tomato plant is believed to have originated.

A greater variety of hereditary material, or genes, seems to exist in Mexican tomatoes, Jenkins found. "Some less desirable Mexican varieties are dying out, but they may contain useful genes not found in American plants," he explained.

"Wild tomatoes are no larger than marbles," he said. "They originated thousands of years ago and still exist. Yet today cultivated tomatoes are larger than baseballs. We are trying to discover what genetic changes occurred during this long period of improvement."

566 HEAD OF SHEEP SOLD IN ASHLEY POOL

Twenty-nine farmers in the Delaware-Morrow-Marion county area consigned 566 head of sheep and lambs to the Ashley Lamb Pool on Thursday, Jesse Foust, president of the Improvement Association, reported.

The double blue grade sold for $24, blue for $23, red for $22 and yellow for $20 a hundred pounds.

The total number of sheep sold through the Ashley lamb pool at this time is larger than a year ago and the officers of the association report that the quality is better.

An open house is being planned for the pool on Nov. 20 when everyone interested in selling sheep and lambs on grade will be invited to attend.

The improvement association is launching a campaign to have farmers cull out all old, barren or otherwise unsuitable ewes out of their flocks this fall before breeding season begins. The purebred ram program is progressing nicely, according to Foust, but unless the unsuitable ewes are disposed of a farmer loses all he gains in his breeding program.

The next pool at the Ashley stock yards will be held on Thursday, Oct. 23. Sheep and lambs should be delivered at the yards between 8 a. m. and 2 p. m., if possible. If a farmer needs to be later than 2 p. m. he shoud call the yards and make arrangements for delivery of his sheep.

Calls for farm inspection may be made to the County Agricultural Extension Office or to Henry Brandes, secretary, at Ashley.
